I think that "spice rack" was originally a fold out ironing board that someone converted into a spice rack and then someone else covered it with a cabinet. October 1st, 12:00 PM

TIMELINE PHOTOS

Thursday, October 1st, 12:00 PM

Dropped ceiling...we never really understood why it was dropped---there were 5 layers of drywall hanging from the ceiling and it was just boxed in... We took out the dropped ceiling this summer. The leak we incurred this summer, was in the left corner (first corner on the left of the window in this picture---it's the north west corner of our house). This alcove is covered by the garage roof and not the second story.

5 different wall papers and 4 different paint colors.... The stove was originally to the right of the sink, with our first remodel, we moved the stove to where it is in this picture. (in this summer's reno, we moved the dishwasher to the right of the sink-- I'll post some pictures soon)
